THIRD SUNDAY OF EASTER (B)

Sunday 14th April, 2024

Acts 3.13–15, 17–19 Psalm 4 1 John 2.1–5 Luke 24.35–48

What Luke does in both the first reading from Acts and in the Gospel is to help celebrate these weeks of Eastertide for focusing on the raising up to life of the one executed as a criminal. When addressing the crowd in the Temple in our first reading, he Peter emphasises that ‘God carried out what he had foretold when he said through all the prophets that his Christ would suffer’.

The early Christian preaching used the language and scriptures of the time to illustrate that the Resurrection was fully in line with God’s actions and promises from earlier times.

This is a development that sets God’s people on a new course –: the necessity to repent and turn to God.’ When Jesus appears to the disciples in the Upper Room, they too cannot grasp what has happened, and so they need to have the connection and the continuity explained. That is precisely what Jesus does: This is what I meant when I said, while I was still with you, that ... has to be fulfilled. ’ That of course is why the Christian Church enable believers to appreciate Christ as the final fulfilment of God’s great work of salvation.

Keep yourself safe and well, Fr. Emile

100 Club Congratulations go to Fr. Emile (55) for winning £101 in the March 100 Club draw at the end of last month.
